This historic book may have numerous typos and missing text. Purchasers can usually download a free scanned copy of the original book (without typos) from the publisher. Not indexed. Not illustrated. 1875 edition. Excerpt: ... Chapter VII. Of the Name of our Lord, and of His Wounds. TOURING the Mass, Nos autem gloriari " oportet, our Lord said to her: "Attend to these words: in quo est salus. In the Cross is true salvation, and out of it no salvation is found. In whatsoever soul, therefore, there is not the Cross, that is, tribulation, there is no patience; and where there is no patience, there is no salvation. In the Cross, also, true life was given to man, when I, Who am Life Itself, and Who died upon the Cross by the death of love, have quickened the soul that is dead in sins, and given it again to live eternally in Me. By the Cross, too, is it given to a man, as often as he falleth through sin, so often to rise again through penance, and, moreover, there is given to him the resurrection of the flesh, and eternal liberty." And when they were reading the Epis tie, Dedit Mi nomen quod est super omne nomen, she said to our Lord: "My Lord, which is the sweetest Name that hath been given Thee by Thy Father?" And our Lord said to her: "That Name is, The Saviour of all ages. For I am the Saviour and Redeemer of all that is, and that hath been, and that shall be hereafter; I am the Saviour of all who lived before I became Man; I am the Saviour of those who lived in the time when I, as Man, conversed with men; I am the Saviour of those who have followed My teaching, and who still wish to walk in My footsteps, even unto the end of the ages. This is that most worthy Name, which was preordained for Me alone by the Father from the beginning of the world, and this Name is above every name." Moreover, when her soul gave thanks to God for His most holy wounds, and prayed Him to inflict upon her as many wounds of love as He bore in His own Body, our Lord said unto her: "As...
